

Since its founding in 1943, NBS-AERho the National Electronic Media Association has brought together college students and professionals in electronic media. NBS level membership is open to all students with an interest in electronic media. Alpha Epsilon Rho, the national honor society for electronic media, recognizes the best students in the field. The organization is dedicated to help make the transition from student to professional efficient, effective, and fun. We prepare students for the profession by sharing real-world experience and focusing on the ethical challenges they may face in the future.
